in Eggs at Columbia.

GIVEN THEM BY PRETTY GIRL

Conjurer's Stage Act Enables Youngest of Roosevelt Family to Make ter First Appearance in Playhouse as One of the Performers—Presented to Little Miss Florence.

It was all good-natured fun, and it did nobody any harm! But it is safe to guess that Master Quentin Roosevelt will not care much for eggs for breakfast to Little Miss Florence.

Master Quentin Roosevelt, son of the worthy Theodore of that ilk, President of Graves of Central Union Presidents the United States, made a Roman holiday for the populace at the Columbia Theater last night. With the assistance of a pretty little girl, a head shorter than himself, but quite as self-possessed-a dainty little girl named Florence, who awoke this morning to find herself famous for having done an act on the stage with President Roosevelt's son-he helped a conjurer to take eggs out of a hat. That is, the conjurer took out the eggs, gave them to Florence, and she handed them demurely to Quentin. Eggs! There were nothing but eggs. Fresh eggs; real hen's eggs-there could be no doubt about that magic hat, and when he dropped this locality. them-lor, how he blushed when he dropper one !- it squashed, very genuinely on PROMOTION FOR R. It was Howard Thurston the conjurer, debut before a Washington audience. He Appointed Superintendent of Train had finished his card tricks and had taken a live goose from down a perfect stranger's back, and he had his audience well mystified. It was a fine audience too. There were many diplomats and soclety folk in the audience, and in one box there was Mr. John C.
